Projections and win % are Sleeper's, captured Oct. 13 before waivers and lineup changes. Bye weeks and injured starters show as 0.00 until managers fix them.

The Lead Story

Week 6 is a bye-week week: CIN, DET, MIA and MIN are off, and twelve starting slots across six rosters project at zero. satiro has four of them (C. Brown, O. Gordon, J. Williams, J. Bates) and a 70.22 projection, NathanR918 has J. Burrow and J. Chase, and Raymond49 is missing both its kicker and defense. The projected totals are low across the board, and they will rise as managers make their moves.

The headline game is Whodatjuan (4-1) against 00sef (3-2), the league's top scorer at 158.8 per week. Sleeper gives 00sef a 63% win chance on a 159.47 projection. The closest game is Zaniac18 against Caullyn, 133.34 to 136.24, with the win odds at 48/52. The biggest mismatch is hogsett7 (91%) over satiro (9%).

Thursday night is SEA at DEN, Sunday carries the bulk of the slate, and Monday night is WAS at SF.

MARQUEE MATCHUP

Whodatjuan Looks to Rebound Against the League's Top Scorer

Whodatjuan (4-1) took its first loss in Week 5 with a season-low 95.44 and three starters at 1.4 points or less. Sleeper projects 139.05 this week, 43.6 above that low, but it faces 00sef, which averages 158.8 and owns the 221.02 season high.

00sef is projected at 159.47 and a 63% win chance, led by J. Allen (26.33), P. Nacua (22.80) and K. Williams (21.36). Whodatjuan's best projection is J. Smith-Njigba (Q) at 21.87, who plays Thursday night, along with K. Walker (21.67).
