Week 1 Final Recap

Full PPR · 6 matchups · All games complete

Week 1 is in the books. Monday Night Football wrapped up with the Chiefs routing the Broncos 31-10 behind Kenneth Walker III's 191-yard, two-touchdown debut in Kansas City — which settled the final three matchups still in question after Sunday. Two blowouts topped 100-point margins, and the week's tightest game came down to less than a single point.

Week 1 Standouts

Top score: Caleb Williams (NathanR918) — 37.26 (21/29, 269 yd, 2 pass TD, 10 car, 65 yd, 2 rush TD). Four total touchdowns, the single best individual performance of the week — on the losing side of the week's biggest blowout.

Also big: Josh Allen 35.66, Derrick Henry 35.30 (3 TD), Kenneth Walker III 34.10 (191 total yards, 2 TD in his Chiefs debut), Jahmyr Gibbs 33.60 (2 TD), Ashton Jeanty 32.70 (2 TD), Christian Watson 32.70 (2 TD), D'Andre Swift 32.40 (3 TD).

Bust of the week: Houston's defense, the only negative score anywhere in the league (-1.00, 36 points allowed) — sitting on Jer13's roster in the week's tightest game.

Goose eggs: Kyle Pitts (0.00, Karrobi), Jordan Addison (0.00, Jer13), and Colston Loveland (0.00, NathanR918) all failed to record a single point. J.K. Dobbins (0.50, NathanR918) was close behind on a quiet Denver night.

Waiver Wire & Chat

Caullyn made two moves this week — dropping Kaleb Johnson (the league's highest-graded value pick from the draft report) for Michael Mayer, and later flipping Sam Darnold for Cam Ward. satiro put Kyle Monangai on the trade block. And hogsett7 spent some time on roster nicknames before kickoff — Christian McCaffrey is now "My only hope," Drake Maye is "Drake bell," and Drake London is, naturally, "Drake bell pt 2."

A note on Monday's numbers: Sleeper's own point values for Monday Night players weren't available to pull directly, so those scores (Kenneth Walker III, Rashee Rice, J.K. Dobbins, Courtland Sutton, Jaylen Waddle, Harrison Butker, Chiefs DEF, Broncos DEF) were calculated from the verified box score using standard PPR scoring. They should be very close to Sleeper's actual totals but may differ by a small margin.*

Recap

The tightest game in the league, decided by less than a point. Derrick Henry's three-touchdown, 144-yard day (35.30) was the best individual performance on either side, and Chris Olave's 182-yard game for Jer13 (28.20, no touchdown) was nearly enough on its own to be the deciding factor.

Kyle Pitts' zero (0/1 targets) hurt Karrrobi badly at a position with no easy replacement, and Marvin Harrison Jr.'s quiet 4.30 didn't help. On the other side, Jer13's Houston DEF pick posted the only negative score in the entire league (-1.00) after allowing 36 points — in a game decided by less than a full point, that single roster spot was the difference.

Recap

A statement week for Raymond49. Ashton Jeanty (32.70, 2 TD) and Bijan Robinson (31.30, 1 TD plus 8 catches) both went off, and Evan McPherson added a season-opening 19-point kicker day on the back of two 50-plus-yard field goals. Only George Kittle (3.20) had a quiet day on this side.

satiro never got going — no player on the roster topped 19 points, and George Kittle's opposite number Tucker Kraft (9.50) was the best they could muster at tight end. Jaylen Waddle's Monday night finale was a dud (1.20, 1 catch for 2 yards) in a lopsided Broncos loss, closing out one of the more lifeless nights of the week for satiro.

Recap

Caullyn wins going away, powered by Trevor Lawrence's four-touchdown day (26.10) and Trey McBride's 95-yard game at tight end (24.50). Javonte Williams quietly had one of the best all-around lines of the week (both a rushing and receiving touchdown) for 24.20.

mattware1199 got a huge Zay Flowers game (26.00, 150 yards) but not much else — MarShawn Lloyd was a near-zero at 3.70. Travis Kelce's Monday night line (8.50, highlighted by a 59-yard catch that moved him up the all-time tight end receiving-yards list) closed out the scoring, but it was never enough to threaten the outcome.

■ Caullyn's Michael Mayer (9.20) is starting in place of Kaleb Johnson — dropped this week after grading as the single best value pick of the entire draft. Small-sample irony noted.

Recap

Isaiah Likely (27.80, 2 TD on a perfect 8/8) and Justin Jefferson (31.20, 2 TD) carried Zaniac18 to the win, with Rashee Rice's Monday night touchdown (8.30, 1 catch) putting the final number out of reach. The Jaguars defense (15.00) was the week's best defensive score.

This is also the game that resolved the Puka Nacua storyline: he played his full role and produced a solid-not-spectacular 12.40 (5/9, 74 yards) in a lopsided 49ers blowout loss — active and productive, just not the explosive week the situation's headlines suggested it might be. Chuba Hubbard (23.70, 2 TD) was the bright spot for 00sef in an otherwise disappointing week.

Recap

A blowout from the jump. Caleb Williams' four-touchdown day (37.26) and Christian Watson's 147-yard, two-touchdown game (32.70) had JLozoya running away with it well before Monday night, and Amon-Ra St. Brown's 28.70 made it three separate 25-plus-point performances on one roster. The Chiefs DEF picked up an interception and a fumble recovery Monday to add a strong final flourish (10.00).

The headline injury of the week happened in this game: A.J. Brown played through three catches for 26 yards before exiting in the third quarter with an ankle injury and not returning — still on the Risk Watch heading into Week 2. For hogsett7, "My only hope" Christian McCaffrey delivered a solid-if-unspectacular 13.80, Drake London ("Drake bell pt 2") was held to a season-opening dud in the snow at Pittsburgh, and Courtland Sutton's quiet Monday (3.70) in a lopsided Denver loss closed out a rough week across the board.

Recap

The biggest blowout of the week, and it wasn't especially close from the opening slate. D'Andre Swift's three-touchdown, 124-yard game (32.40) and Jaxon Smith-Njigba's 122-yard, 26.20-point day were already decisive, and Kenneth Walker III's Monday night debut for Kansas City (173 rush yards, a rushing score, and a receiving score, 34.10) turned a comfortable win into a rout.

It's a rough opener for NathanR918: Ja'Marr Chase managed only 3.20 on two catches, and Colston Loveland was held to a complete zero. J.K. Dobbins' Monday line (0.50, 3 carries for 5 yards) in a run-funnel loss to Kansas City was the final indignity in a week that never got going. Jeremiyah Love's touchdown debut (13.00) was the one genuine bright spot.
