

One Bite Fantasy League

Week 1: Wednesday Recap & Thursday Preview

Recap: Patriots @ Seahawks

Wednesday, Sept. 9, 2026 · Lumen Field · NFL Kickoff Game

Final: Seahawks 13, Patriots 10

Seattle raised its Super Bowl LX banner and then survived a sloppy, defense-first rematch. Drew Lock relieved an injured Sam Darnold and led the comeback, capped by a 26-yard Jason Myers field goal after Julian Love's interception set up the winning drive. Drake Maye threw three fourth-quarter picks, the last one in the end zone on New England's final possession.

Jaxon Smith-Njigba (WR, SEA)

Whodatjuan — started

Delivered exactly when it mattered: a 45-yard touchdown from Lock on 4th-and-1 that tied the game. A strong, game-defining day for Seattle's WR1.

↑ STOCK UP — Confirmed as the offense's go-to option regardless of who's at QB.

A.J. Brown (WR, NE)

JLozoya — started

Left in the 3rd quarter with a right ankle injury and did not return; New England's passing game fell apart without him. Coach Vrabel gave no update on severity after the game — officially day-to-day pending further testing, with outside speculation (not team-confirmed) about a possible high ankle sprain.

↓ STOCK DOWN — New, serious addition to the Risk Watch — track his Week 2 practice status closely before starting him again.

Rhamondre Stevenson (RB, NE)

00sef — started

18 carries, 51 yards, 0 TD. Full workhorse volume with Henderson out, but low efficiency capped the fantasy day.

TreVeyon Henderson (RB, NE)

mattware1199 — rostered

Inactive as expected (ankle). No fantasy impact this week either way.

Jason Myers (K, SEA)

JLozoya — started

Hit the game-winning 26-yard field goal in the 4th quarter — a genuine bright spot for JLozoya on an otherwise rough night.

↑ STOCK UP — A clutch, winning kick amid the Brown injury news.

Patriots DEF (DEF, NE)

Karrobi — started

Allowed 13 points and forced zero takeaways — a quiet, below-average fantasy day.

Seahawks DEF (DEF, SEA)

satiro — started

Forced all 3 of New England's turnovers (three Maye interceptions) and held the Patriots to 10 points — a strong defensive fantasy day, directly boosting satiro in the Raymond49 matchup.

↑ STOCK UP — One of the better DEF scores of the week across the league.

Drake Maye (QB, NE)

hogsett7 — rostered, not started

23/33, 178 yards, 1 TD, 3 INT (the last one sealing the loss). A rough game that validates hogsett7's call to start Jaxon Dart instead this week.

Tonight: 49ers @ Rams

Thursday, Sept. 10, 2026 · 8:35 PM ET · Netflix · Melbourne, Australia

The league's biggest single-game concentration of fantasy relevance this week — this matchup directly touches three different starting lineups across the league.

Brock Purdy (QB, SF)

Raymond49 — starting

Efficient, low-risk QB1 play with a full complement of weapons around him.

George Kittle (TE, SF)

Raymond49 — starting

Carried a Questionable tag into this week; worth confirming his snap count early if he's active, since there's no easy replacement at TE in this lineup.

Christian McCaffrey (RB, SF)

hogsett7 — starting

The highest-ceiling player in this game when he's fully featured — hogsett7's whole projection edge this week runs largely through him.

Puka Nacua (WR, LAR)

00sef — starting

The single biggest swing piece on the entire slate this week. His conduct review remains unresolved; if his route count or snap share is managed at all, the ceiling drops fast. If he plays his normal role, he's one of the best plays in the league tonight.

Kyren Williams (RB, LAR)

00sef — starting

Full-workload back on a short week after last week's Thursday tie-in; game-script dependent against a good 49ers front.

Davante Adams (WR, LAR)

hogsett7 — starting

Reliable target share in a offense that leans on him in contested situations.

Matthew Stafford (QB, LAR)

Jer13 — rostered, not starting

Jer13 started Jared Goff instead this week. A big Stafford night on national television is worth watching for a potential QB flip next week.
