Week 1 Sunday Recap

Full PPR · 6 matchups · Scores current through Sunday, Monday Night players noted

Sunday delivered one nail-biter, two comfortable wins, and two outright blowouts. Six teams still have a piece or two on Monday Night Football, so nothing below is mathematically final — but three matchups are already decided regardless of what happens tonight.

Scoreboard

Matchup	Score	Status
Eight Games to Life (Karrobi) vs. Jer13	113.46 — 114.44	FINAL — closest game of the week
Pearsall's Second Shot (Raymond49) vs. Team satiro	169.90 — 99.90	Raymond49 leads; satiro has J. Waddle (Mon)
Dan Smith (mattware1199) vs. Romosexual Tendencies (Caullyn)	106.36 — 143.70	FINAL — Caullyn wins comfortably
Benny and The JJets (Zaniac18) vs. real njigbas (00sef)	160.86 — 149.16	Zaniac18 leads (already clinched); has R. Rice (Mon)
HeroGma (hogsett7) vs. Ryan Flournoy (JLozoya)	88.50 — 155.16	JLozoya blowout; both have Monday pieces left the big benny yahu (Whodatjuan) vs. Fire Jerry (NathanR918)	139.92 — 59.16	Whodatjuan blowout; both have Monday pieces left

Sunday Standouts

Top score: Caleb Williams (NathanR918) — 37.26 (21/29, 269 yd, 2 pass TD, 10 car, 65 yd, 2 rush TD). Four total touchdowns, the single best individual performance of the week — on the losing side of the week's biggest blowout.

Also big: Josh Allen 35.66, Derrick Henry 35.30 (3 TD), Jahmyr Gibbs 33.60 (2 TD), D'Andre Swift 32.40 (3 TD), Ashton Jeanty 32.70 (2 TD), Christian Watson 32.70 (2 TD).

Bust of the week: Houston's defense, the only negative score anywhere in the league (-1.00, 36 points allowed) — sitting on Jer13's roster in the week's tightest game.

Goose eggs: Kyle Pitts (0.00, Karrobi), Jordan Addison (0.00, Jer13), and Colston Loveland (0.00, NathanR918) all failed to record a single point.

Waiver Wire & Chat

Caullyn made two moves this week — dropping Kaleb Johnson (the league's highest-graded value pick from the draft report) for Michael Mayer, and later flipping Sam Darnold for Cam Ward. satiro put Kyle Monangai on the trade block. And hogsett7 spent some time on roster nicknames before kickoff — Christian McCaffrey is now "My only hope," Drake Maye is "Drake bell," and Drake London is, naturally, "Drake bell pt 2."

Recap

The tightest game in the league, decided by less than a point. Derrick Henry's three-touchdown, 144-yard day (35.30) was the best individual performance on either side, and Chris Olave's 182-yard game for Jer13 (28.20, no touchdown) was nearly enough on its own to be the deciding factor.

Kyle Pitts' zero (0/1 targets) hurt Karrrobi badly at a position with no easy replacement, and Marvin Harrison Jr.'s quiet 4.30 didn't help. On the other side, Jer13's Houston DEF pick posted the only negative score in the entire league (-1.00) after allowing 36 points — in a game decided by less than a full point, that single roster spot was the difference.

Pearsall's Second Shot (Raymond49) vs. Team satiro

Raymond49 169.90 — satiro 99.90

Raymond49 leads by 70.00

satiro has Jaylen Waddle (DEN) still to play Monday night — projected +14.32, would bring satiro to ~114.22.

Recap

A statement week for Raymond49. Ashton Jeanty (32.70, 2 TD) and Bijan Robinson (31.30, 1 TD plus 8 catches) both went off, and Evan McPherson added a season-opening 19-point kicker day on the back of two 50-plus-yard field goals. Only George Kittle (3.20) had a quiet day on this side.

satiro never got going — no player on the roster topped 19 points, and George Kittle's opposite number Tucker Kraft (9.50) was the best they could muster at tight end. Jaylen Waddle's Monday night game is the only thing left to play for, and even a monster night doesn't get satiro within shouting distance.

Recap

Caullyn wins going away, powered by Trevor Lawrence's four-touchdown day (26.10) and Trey McBride's 95-yard game at tight end (24.50). Javonte Williams quietly had one of the best all-around lines of the week (both a rushing and receiving touchdown) for 24.20.

mattware1199 got a huge Zay Flowers game (26.00, 150 yards) but not much else — MarShawn Lloyd was a near-zero at 3.70, and Travis Kelce's Monday night game is the only thing left on the board, with the outcome long since decided.

■ Caullyn's Michael Mayer (9.20) is starting in place of Kaleb Johnson — dropped this week after grading as the single best value pick of the entire draft. Small-sample irony noted.

Benny and The JJets (Zaniac18) vs. real njigbas (00sef)

Zaniac18 160.86 — 00sef 149.16 (FINAL)

Zaniac18 leads by 11.70 — already clinched

Zaniac18 has Rashee Rice (KC) still to play Monday night — projected +12.86, would bring Zaniac18 to ~173.72. 00sef's full roster is done for the week.

Recap

Isaiah Likely (27.80, 2 TD on a perfect 8/8) and Justin Jefferson (31.20, 2 TD) carried Zaniac18 to a lead that's already safe regardless of what Rashee Rice does Monday night. The Jaguars defense (15.00) was the week's best defensive score.

This is also the game that resolved the Puka Nacua storyline: he played his full role and produced a solid-not-spectacular 12.40 (5/9, 74 yards) in a lopsided 49ers blowout loss — active and productive, just not the explosive week the situation's headlines suggested it might be. Chuba Hubbard (23.70, 2 TD) was the bright spot for 00sef in an otherwise disappointing week.

HeroGma (hogsett7) vs. Ryan Flournoy (JLozoya)

JLozoya leads by 66.66

hogsett7 has Courtland Sutton (DEN) and the Chiefs DEF still to play Monday — projected +18.76. JLozoya has the Broncos DEF still to play Monday — projected +7.18.

Recap

A blowout in progress. Caleb Williams' four-touchdown day (37.26) and Christian Watson's 147-yard, two-touchdown game (32.70) have JLozoya running away with it, and Amon-Ra St. Brown's 28.70 makes it three separate 25-plus-point performances on one roster.

The headline injury of the week happened in this game: A.J. Brown played through three catches for 26 yards before exiting in the third quarter with an ankle injury and not returning — still on the Risk Watch heading into Week 2. For hogsett7, "My only hope" Christian McCaffrey delivered a solid-if-unspectacular 13.80, and Drake London ("Drake bell pt 2") was held to a season-opening dud in the snow at Pittsburgh.

the big benny yahu (Whodatjuan) vs. Fire Jerry (NathanR918)

Whodatjuan 139.92 — NathanR918 59.16

Whodatjuan leads by 80.76

Whodatjuan has Kenneth Walker III (KC) still to play Monday — projected +13.70. NathanR918 has J.K. Dobbins and Harrison Butker still to play Monday — projected +16.42 combined.

Recap

The biggest blowout of the week. D'Andre Swift's three-touchdown, 124-yard game (32.40) and Jaxon Smith-Njigba's 122-yard, 26.20-point day — both season-opening statement performances — have Whodatjuan running away with it before Kenneth Walker III even kicks off Monday night.

It's a rough opener for NathanR918: Ja'Marr Chase managed only 3.20 on two catches, and Colston Loveland was held to a complete zero. Jeremiyah Love's touchdown debut (13.00) was the one genuine bright spot, with Dobbins and Butker still to play Monday to soften the final margin.
